

Dear Members:

LOBBA now has a website and it looks great. You can view the website at www.lobba.net.

When you view the website you will find the LOBBA sale dates for 2011, officers and directors, and membership forms. When sales catalogs are available, they will be posted for your viewing.

As a member you can advertise your Beefmaster operation by having your business card posted on the website. The cost of a 2x3 business card sized advertising space is a one time set-up fee of $50.00 plus $100.00 per year. If you participated in the business card advertising last year you will not have to pay the setup fee. If a member has their own website and wishes to have a link from the LOBBA website to their website, there will be an additional charge of $50.00 a year.

The one year advertising cost on the website will run from January 1st to December 31st. If you wish to use your business card to advertise on the LOBBA website, please send a business card with the completed form along with your payment.

If you don't have a business card you may still advertise on the website by providing the information requested on the attached form. This information will then be placed on the website in a 2"x 3" space. The deadline for participating in the 2011 year will be December 31st, 2010.

Thanks
